(1) This information is treated as strictly confidential
(2)When a book is published for the first time, it is described as a first edition. If it is republished and changes are made to the contents or layout, it is described as a revision or second edition. A change of publisher also constitutes a new edition.
(3)If a work is republished and no changes are made to the content or preservation (apart from limited alterations to spelling and corrections of printing errors), it is described as a reprint or a new impression and not as a new edition. For example, if the second edition, first impression is reprinted and republished without significant change, the second edition, second impression will result.
